How Children and Adults Can Build Core Capabilities for Life

- Center on the Developing Child at Harvard University -

Every day we take on the ordinary, sometimes challenging, tasks of work, school, parenting, relationships, and just managing our busy lives. How do we navigate these tasks successfully? And what can send us off course? Science offers an explanation.

This 5-minute video explores the development and use of core capabilities — known as executive function and self-regulation skills — from early childhood into adolescence and adulthood.

Additional Updates and Events

August is Immunization Awareness Month in Florida

INFORMATION FOR PARENTS 2019 Recommended Immunizations for Children 7-18 Years Old

2019 Recommended Immunizations for Children from Birth Through 6 Years Old

Is your family growing? To protect your new baby against whooping cough, get a Tdap vaccine. The recommended time is the 27th through 36th week of pregnancy. Talk to your doctor for more details.

Shaded boxes indicate the vaccine can be given during shown age range.

NOTE: If your child misses a shot, you don't need to start over. Just go back to your child's doctor for the next shot. Talk with your child's doctor if you have questions about vaccines.

FOOTNOTES:

- * Two doses given at least four weeks apart are recommended for children age 6 months through 8 years of age who are getting an influenza (flu) vaccine for the first time and for some other children in this age group.
- ⁶ Two doses of HepA vaccine are needed for lasting protection. The first dose of HepA vaccine should be given between 12 months and 23 months of age. The second dose should be given 6 months after the last dose. HepA vaccination may be given to any child 12 months and older to protect against hepatitis A. Children and adolescents who did not receive the HepA vaccine and are at high risk should be vaccinated against hepatitis A.

If your child has any medical conditions that put him at risk for infection or is traveling outside the United States, talk to your child's doctor about additional vaccines that he or she may need.

See back page for more information on vaccine-preventable diseases and the vaccines that prevent them.

Talk to your child's doctor or nurse about the vaccines recommended for their age.

More information: Everyone 6 months and older should get a flu vaccine every year. All 11- through 12- year olds should get one shot of Tdap. All 11- through 12- year olds should get a 2-shot series of HPV vaccine. A 3-shot series is needed for those with weakened immune systems and those who start the series at 15 years or older. All 11- through 12- year olds should get one shot of meningococcal conjugate (MenACWY). A booster shot is recommended at age 16. Teens 16-18 years old may be vaccinated with a serogroup B meningococcal (MenB) vaccine.

- These shaded boxes indicate when the vaccine is recommended for all children unless your doctor tells you that your child cannot safely receive the vaccine.
- These shaded boxes indicate the vaccine should be given if a child is catching up on missed vaccines.
- These shaded boxes indicate the vaccine is recommended for children with certain health or lifestyle conditions that put them at an increased risk for serious diseases. See vaccine-specific recommendations at www.cdc.gov/vaccines/hcp/acip-recs/.
- This shaded box indicates children not at increased risk may get the vaccine if they wish after speaking to a provider.

Since 1988, this annual conference has been a leader in promoting the development of the research base essential to improved service systems for children and youth with mental health challenges and their families. Known widely as “The Tampa Conference,” this annual gathering of more than 700 researchers, evaluators, policymakers, administrators, parents, and advocates is sponsored by Child & Family Studies at the University of South Florida, in partnership with the Children’s Mental Health Network, Morehouse School of Medicine, the National Wraparound Initiative, Casey Family Programs, Florida Institute for Child Welfare, Institute for Translational Research Education in Adolescent Drug Abuse, Transitions to Adulthood Center for Research, Pathways to Positive Futures, Child & Family Evidence Based Practice Consortium, Family-Run Executive Director Leadership Association, the National Technical Assistance Network for Children’s Behavioral Health, and the Movember Foundation.

The Conference Planning Committee invites you to submit proposals for research and policy benefiting children, youth and their families. Special topic tracks include:

- Behavioral Health Equity
- Child Welfare
- Evidence-based Practice in Systems of Care
- Family Engagement
- Innovations in Wraparound
- Youth and Young Adults
- Innovative Initiatives on Improving Men and Boys Mental Health and Well-being

General topic areas include:

- ▶ Research and policy associated with preventing and alleviating trauma in the lives of families, children, and emerging adults
- ▶ Systems research on processes that impact effectiveness
- ▶ Research on family, youth and young adult roles in behavioral health services
- ▶ Innovative approaches to research and evaluation in complex behavioral health settings
- ▶ Community-based policy approaches addressing Substance Use/Dual Diagnosis services
- ▶ Early childhood behavioral health
- ▶ Building capacity to provide coordinated behavioral health community responses to American Indian/Alaska Native families
